SUKAINA

I started volunteering in Croatia half a year ago, I don't believe it! (how fast time passes...). The current situation has not allowed other volunteer and me to take advantage 100 percent of the activities of our volunteering, but we had always something to do like participate in intercultural meetings with high school students. I really liked the spanish classes I've given, I've met new people and acquired new skills. The people in my organization are very friendly and have treated me very well, I am very happy with them, also with my mentor who now I consider a friend.

Meeting new people and making new friends is one of the most beautiful thing that has happened to me during my service here. As for languages, I can't say I'm an expert in Croatian but I'm learning the basics, and my level of English has made a lot of progress because it's the language I use here.

In my free time we do a bit of everything from playing new sports like crossminton, visiting a new city like Split or just eating burek 😊

MART

Have been in Croatia before and loved it, so I wanted to come back for a longer time. Also I dreamed to live longer time in some EU southern and warmer country.

I choosed Croatia and Zagor because project was related to camera - can use and improve my earlier camera skills, also here have more time and motivation to improve, learn new skills in camera/editing. As well as learn and experience something new - what Zagor and Croatia brings to me.

In Estonia I was part of youth organisation where we tried to have a positive impact to local young people - so with being a volunteer of Zagor I can be part of it again and make a difference here too.

I'm loving the moments in your rocky nature because my home country Estonia is very flat. It's seems interesting to learn about a new country - your traditions, culture, history, nature, people etc. Can say that the best thing what has happened to me so far is the people who I have met inside and outside Zagor.

Hopefully COVID will back down so that I can meet new people in the future! 😊
