

About Me...

BY ELLIE LEACY

Before I moved ...

When I was back in the UK I was in college studying History, Politics, Law and English Literature. Studying these types of subjects were fairly difficult as they are strenuous and provide a lot of work ethic put into each one. Due to furthering my learning I was able to gain knowledge that is extremely beneficial in my everyday life, especially within Law and Politics.

I studied my A Levels at two different colleges back home because I wanted to move after my first year as I was not getting the same advantages there as I would somewhere else. In my second college I picked up a subject called 'EPQ' which is an extended project qualification. For this I had written a dissertation about mental health because in my opinion it is always important to be aware of the damages of mental health.

Whilst I was in college I had made a really good group of new friends who were all from different backgrounds which was refreshing to me. I think this was a factor of what made me want to go to a different country so I could learn more about different cultures.

Usually, my friends and I tend to go to a lot of gigs or events to drink. Some events we have been to are Pride Festival in Liverpool and pub quizzes that were based on drag queens which is apart of LGBT+ culture. In the North West of England, there is a lot of diversity and it is a friendly place for minorities which I think is really good as my friends and I feel very safe there.

Hobbies back home ...

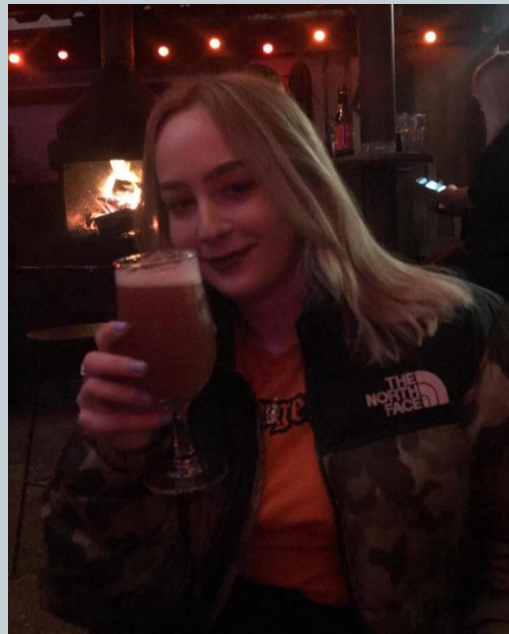

More Hobbies ...

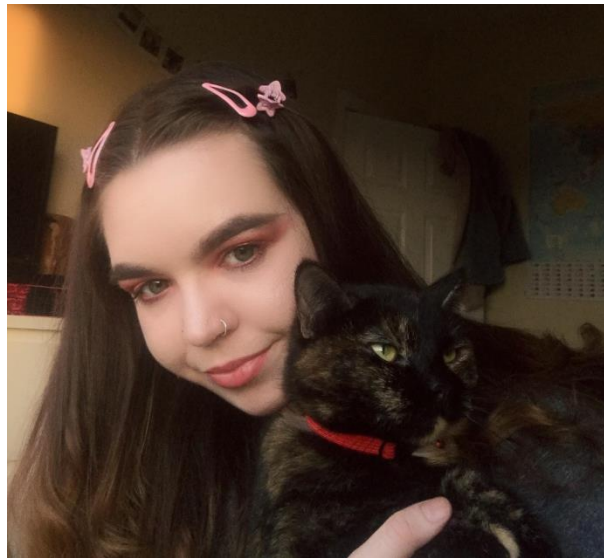

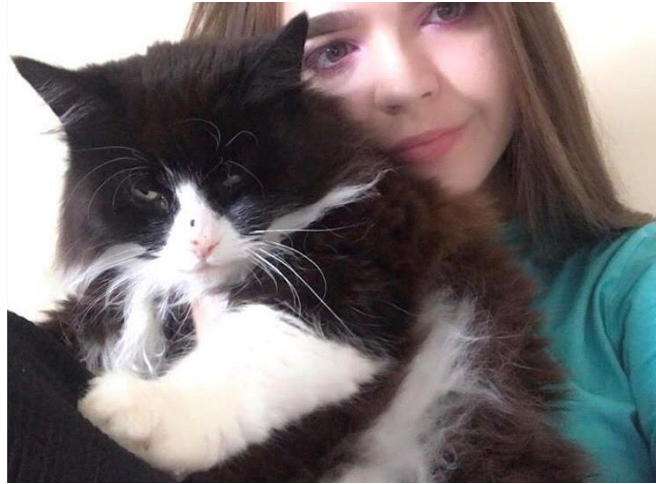

Since I live near two major cities (Liverpool and Manchester) I always had a lot of things to do to keep me busy and to spend time with my friends. When they are home from University we would regularly have a get together at our local pub or we would go out for meals or bowling etc. I loved going to the cinemas with them because we all have that in common; liking films, therefore we'd be able to discuss films days on end!

I lived with my parents and my older brother. I have another older brother and sister but they both moved out a couple years ago. I have 2 cats and a dog; everyday I miss seeing them. For years I have been used to seeing my pets everyday so it is hard for me to adjust from seeing them so often to basically not at all.

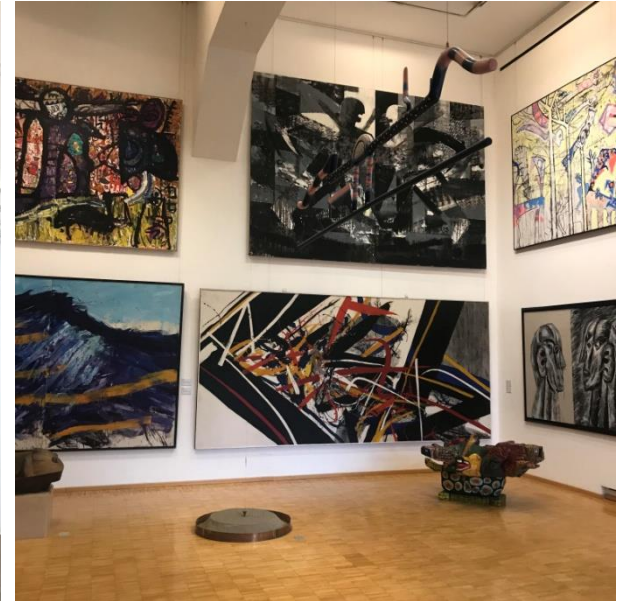

Home life ...

I am very interested in films because I like how it makes art come to life and cinematography and angles really tell a story. Other arts I like is contemporary and physical art which is good since I was able to visit an art gallery in Zagreb.

Along with this, I love taking photos. I will include some I took a couple of years ago on my camera. Since being in Croatia it has got me back into taking pictures!

Extra info about me ...

Since being in Croatia I have been able to see some amazing sights. I love nature and sightseeing so it has been great so far with what I have been able to see. Here are two people of me enjoying the outdoors from when I was 4 and 17.

Furthermore, I look forward to seeing more sights like ones I have included. I think it is a brilliant opportunity what I am doing as I wake up everyday excited to what I will see even in my own town!
